

Our Mission

Children's Cancer Research Fund is a national nonprofit dedicated to ending childhood cancer. Our main focus is to support research of bright scientists across the country whose ideas can make the greatest impact for children fighting cancer. We also fund resources and programs that help kids and families as they navigate the difficult experience of cancer treatment and survivorship.

Since 1981, we've contributed over $200 million to research, support programs for children and families, and awareness and education outreach.
