

Alice's Story

I wish to have a gazebo with a swing chair

Alice, wish granted 2021
nervous system disorder

Alice loves cookies, pink and going for walks. She is a young girl with a big imagination. Even during mealtimes—her favorite times of the day - she can't help but daydream. Alice is the middle child and takes her role as big sister to heart.

When Alice was born, she had difficulty breathing and drinking milk. She was diagnosed with West Syndrome. For three years, she needed to wear a respirator and had to be fed through a tube connected to her stomach. Since she is non-verbal, it is hard for her to express how she feels.

This summer Alice's wish for a gazebo with a safe swing chair was granted. She has already shared many great moments in this space with her family. "The gazebo allows us to better enjoy our time together, regardless of the weather. Alice has a lot of fun in her swing chair and agrees to share it with her big sister who uses it to read", confided her mother, who also wants to convey a message of hope: "I send strength to every child waiting to have their wish come true and their families! I hope you share moments filled with happiness and many giggles! "
