

Guillaume's Story

I wish to have unlimited access to my high school gym

cancer

Guillaume is a sociable young man who listens to others and does not shy away from any challenge. He also enjoys learning to play the piano with online tutorials. Beyond the arts, this great sportsman is very passionate about basketball and frisbee.

Upon returning from a ski trip, Guillaume felt pain in his toe. After consulting his doctor who could not find the source of the problem, Guillaume took blood tests which revealed an abnormally high level of white blood cells. He was soon given the news that he had cancer. He was immediately hospitalized for six months to complete his treatment protocol.

It was during his hospital stay that Guillaume thought about his wish, process that helped him a lot. His mother says they spent hours chatting and "dreaming about the wish." Driven by his passion for basketball, Guillaume wanted to continue to have access to the gymnasium at his high school, which has a ball-throwing robot. He also received shoes and tank tops from his favourite players.

In his own words, Guillaume says, that his wish come true is "PURE joy! It's an unexpected privilege to have access to my old high school gymnasium and to continue training with my friends. The day of my wish reveal will stay in my heart forever!"
