

Krystel's Story

I wish to have a multisensory room

Krystel, wish granted 2021
nervous system disorder

Krystel is a young woman who enjoys spending time with her family and her dog. Although she is non-verbal, she loves to be entertained and listen to upbeat music.

Over the years, Krystel showed signs of regression in her development and other various health and behavioral problems developed. She was diagnosed with a nervous system disorder which results in loss of language, normal movement and use of the hands.

Her family knew that a wish to have a multisensory room would do her good and provide her with hours of enjoyment. Her mother says, " she loves her room. It helps to calm her down and decrease her anxiety. On the day of her wish reveal, she rushed to see her room and explore it. Her smile said it all. You should never be discouraged—moments of joy and sweetness are possible despite everything."
