

Olivier's Story

I wish to have a a gaming computer

Olivier, wish granted 2021
nervous system disorder

Olivier likes going outside and ride his adapted bike. He also loves playing video games and watching videos online—so much so, that he would like to become a YouTuber.

From a very young age, Olivier's parents noticed that he seemed to be quite clumsy. He suffered from mild head trauma, mainly attributed to his difficulty in walking on an unstable surface. His parents knew something wasn't quite right and took various steps to find out more. Finally, a neurologist noticed that Olivier had no upper and lower limb reflexes and a loss of coordination. A blood test then confirmed the diagnosis of a a nervous system disorder. Since that day, Olivier has been following a rehabilitation program.

Olivier's wish was for an ultimate gaming computer. His parents prepared everything as a surprise for a big wish reveal. His mom said, "He walked to his room not knowing his wish was about to come true. Seeing everything, he immediately had beautiful sparkles of joy in his eyes!"
